A New Year, A new Middle East?

The leaders of Syria's Druze community in al-Hader just did something unbelievable: they asked to join Israel. Facing the threat of radical Islamic forces at their doorstep, the Druze leaders decided that Israeli sovereignty was their only hope for survival, face destruction or seek protection under Israeli rule.

With a lot of the western World saying Israel is a pariah state that oppresses minorities. Even as the UN condemns Israel for "occupation," but actual Middle Eastern minorities are requesting to live under Israeli protection. And the Druze are not alone. Kurdish leaders controlling a quarter of Syria have also reached out to Israel for help against Turkish-backed Islamist forces. They know that Israel is the only reliable security in the region. Isaiah saw Jerusalem becoming a center of both spiritual and political leadership, with surrounding peoples voluntarily accepting its authority: "for out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem. And he shall judge among the nations" (Isaiah 2:3-4).

In political terms, this arrangement is called suzerainty. It means regions keep significant autonomy while giving control of defense and foreign policy to a stronger protecting state. The situation of the Druze community is particularly deeply affecting, as many families have been split between Israel and Syria since the 1974 ceasefire, leading to painful separations and an inability for married women to return to their home country. Their appeal for Israeli protection demonstrates how suzerainty could offer a practical solution for communities seeking security while maintaining their cultural autonomy.

With Progressive politicians in Washington and Brussels who love to present Israel with a suicidal choice: either hand over the biblical heartland of Judea and Samaria to create a Palestinian terror state, or face endless accusations of being "occupiers" and "apartheid practitioners." These same progressives conveniently forget that every single Israeli withdrawal has led to Jewish bloodshed – from the Oslo Accords straight through to the Hamas massacre of October 7. Their false choice between national suicide and international condemnation has poisoned any chance of finding real solutions.

Under a suzerainty model, Arab communities in Judea and Samaria who reject terrorism and accept Israeli sovereignty could enjoy substantial local autonomy, based on traditional family structures, managing their internal affairs while overall security and foreign policy remain under Israeli control. This arrangement would protect Israel's security interests while allowing peaceful communities to maintain their cultural identity and local governance, creating a clear incentive for choosing coexistence over conflict.

Israel is already emerging as the region's natural leader. The Jewish state's partnerships with Cyprus and Greece are reshaping Mediterranean politics. Israel's technological ability and unmatched military strength make it the perfect candidate for this role. And most importantly? This strategy aligns perfectly with God's vision while solving real-world problems. by Elie Mischel

"It pleased them indeed, and they are their debtors. For if the Gentiles have been partakers of their (the Jewish peoples) spiritual things, their duty is also to minister to them in material things."

Romans 15:27

The Terrorists Organizations, Hamas and Fatah have still not removed their call for the genocide of the Jewish People. Their ideological commitment is to destroy the State of Israel through a long-term 'so-called' holy war (Jihad).

Israeli Updates Amid Toppling of Assad, Kurds in Syria Appeal to Israel for Help;

Representatives of the Syrian Kurds have appealed to Israeli officials seeking assistance and protection. On Monday, Turkish-backed Syrian rebels announced that they had begun attacking Kurdish forces in the Manbij area in northern Syria, northeast of Aleppo. Israel, which views the Kurdish community as a friendly and Western-oriented entity, has been working with Western countries since the beginning of the current campaign to ensure the security of the Kurds within the emerging new reality in Syria. The current situation, including the victory of Sunni jihadists and the intensification of the civil war, creates security and political uncertainty. Foreign Minister Gideon Sa'ar has recently engaged in a series of discussions with his European and American counterparts, raising the Kurdish issue and emphasizing the necessity of supporting them.

Netanyahu to Iranians: 'The Billions Your Oppressors Stole from You Went up in Smoke'; Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu published a video message on Thursday, addressing the people of Iran following the fall of Bashar al-Assad's regime in Syria. "As we see history unfold before our very eyes, I can only imagine what you're feeling right now. Your oppressors spent over 30 billion dollars supporting Assad in Syria. Today, after only 11 days of fighting, his regime collapsed into the dust," Netanyahu opened. "Your oppressors spent billions supporting Hamas in Gaza. Today, their regime lies in ruins. Your oppressors spent over 20 billion dollars supporting Hezbollah in Lebanon. In a matter of weeks, most of Hezbollah's leaders, its rockets, and thousands of its terrorists went up in smoke. It's the money you're oppressors stole from you that truly went up in smoke," he continued. "You know why Iran's oppressors keep losing? ... It's because they seek to conquer other nations, to impose fundamentalist tyranny on the Middle East and the entire world. The only thing Israel seeks is to defend our state. But in doing so, we're defending civilization from barbarism." He added: "Israel wants peace. We want peace with all those who truly want peace with us. And I have no doubt that you, the people of Iran, know this ... You know what this regime is truly terrified of? It's terrified of you, the people of Iran. And one day, I know that... one day this will change. One day Iran will be free."
